The year 2020 has been a different experience with lots of uncertainties and insecurities. The coronavirus COVID-19 pandemic is the defining global health crisis of our time and the greatest challenge we have faced since World War Two. It has demonstrated the inter-connected nature of our world- and that no one is safe until everyone is safe. As the number of positive cases continue to surge exponentially, 'total lockdown' continue to reverberate across various towns and cities.

Amidst the ever-spreading pandemic, our college fraternity while obeying community guideline, protocols and social norms refused to put our minds and creativity at halt. We chose to 'adapt, improvise and overcome' the challenge that is paralyzing our economy and our country. The students of Kohima Science College in its grandeur continue to shine through their talents, responsibilities and duties.

Expression is not just a necessity, it is an art. Contained in this issue are the exhibition of beautiful expression in language and art. This issue feature and reflect the creative minds and artistic ideas of students, alumni and our teachers.

Scintilla this issue aims to provide a platform for students not only in creative writing, but also allow an outlet for students to put their minds at work, exercise their right to express, discover oneself and most importantly, create an identity.

As we stay productive, let 'growth' be our maxim and may we remain adaptive to change.

During this COVID-19 pandemic, experiences were being shared through different platforms on the quality of food that is being served in the quarantine centres of Nagaland. Had I being in someone's shoe, I wonder what I would be sharing. I am not in a quarantine centre and I have no idea about the quality or quantity of food being served. Since the food provided appears to be of more concern rather than the deadly virus, I forced myself to ponder on our foods and its source. My thoughts are sudden, just like our lockdown notifications and I am unable to pinpoint the exact location of our food source. However, my layman research shows that majority of what we Nagas consume are being imported from other states of India. Whether we are under quarantine or not, we are surviving, just because our fellow humans from the mainland are providing 80% of our needs.

In order to consider myself as being prepared, I stocked 100kg of rice, 3kg of soya bean and 5kg of salt, since these are my staple food and I am responsible to feed eight mouths. I also have started planting fast growing vegetables in my small garden. I am doing this because I am scared that in future, deadlier virus may arise, leading to a state of complete lockdown and essential commodities from other states may not be able to reach us. I am more scared when I think of my children.

In the past, our ancestors grow their own food, except salt in some regions, and were self sufficient. Their life may not be luxurious but they cultivate and grow what they need to survive. If we look at the present scenario, we have become over dependent. We blame the government for any disaster, calamity, pandemic and even standard of food as if the government can just wave the magic wand to solve all problems. I am a Chakhesang and sübroce (fermented soya bean) is a regular component of my curry but even that, we hardly cultivate these days, because raw soya bean, imported from other states, is readily available in the market. Are we self sufficient? Do we have food security to last even a month? I don't think so.

Our ancestral profession is agriculture, and in rural areas, people still practice it, though many are now inclined toward producing cash crops rather than staple food crops. In case of pandemics worse than the present, other industries may die, but agriculture industry will not, if human life has to continue on our planet Earth.

By God's grace, we still have people who can teach us how to grow food in our own land and be independent. So why don't we once again try to become self sufficient by encouraging each other to:

1. Identify our staple foods and grow/rear them by ourselves.
2. Train our children to cultivate and grow their own food.
3. Prepare/educate our children to face extraordinary situations.
4. Develop strategies to be self reliant
5. Prepare to have sufficient food/fund within our village in case of any eventuality.

On the other hand, it would be good if agriculture experts could help in identifying areas where suitable crops may be cultivated. I think there are prospect of producing our staple food in our own land. Our elected representatives may kindly utilise local area development funds wisely. Animal husbandry and Agriculture departments may become more active.

We tend to say 'we can' and of course we can, but if we don't act, we can't. Once we are self reliant, do we really need India to grant us independence? Be independent, then sovereignty may not be far behind.

10 Rules Of Netiquette For Students

Dept of English

Effective communication is key to success in online education, and that's where the term "netiquette" comes in. Netiquette, which is a portmanteau of "net" and "etiquette," refers to using courtesy and politeness when communicating with others online.

Netiquette in online education

The rules for online learning and classroom learning are virtually the same: You have to study, take notes, attend classes and participate in discussions. In the classroom, your words, gestures, posture and facial expressions communicate your thoughts and observations to your classmates and teachers. But how do you express yourself online, where the written word is all they see? During your online degree program, you will frequently be asked to participate in online discussions and will occasionally do peer reviews of your classmates' work. Here are 10 rules of netiquette that will help you successfully communicate as you learn online.

1. Make sure identification is clear in all communications. Begin with a salutation ("Hi, Jason!") and end with your signature ("Hannah Kay, Criminology 101").
2. Review what you wrote and try to interpret it objectively. When we speak face to face and are misunderstood, we have an on-the-spot opportunity to rephrase our words. In writing, we must strive twice as hard to be understood, as we do not have the benefit of modifying or elaborating in real time. All caps ("I'M SHOUTING") and exclamation points ("Give me a break!!!") can be misinterpreted as intense anger or humor without the appropriate context.
3. If you wouldn't say it face to face, don't say it online. When you're working online, you're safe behind a screen, but that's no excuse to be ill-mannered or say things you would never say in public.
4. Don't assume everyone understands where you're coming from. Sarcasm and wit is often the spice of in-person conversation, but in online discussion, it can not only lose its edge, it can bite! In your high school classroom, all students were the same age, came from similar backgrounds and lived in the same area. In contrast, your online classroom is made up of people of all ages and cultures who have varied backgrounds, lifestyles and geographic locations. With this in mind, review what you wrote before contributing to the conversation and ask yourself, "Will everyone get the joke?"
5. Don't spam. Please don't take advantage of your connection with the other students in your online classroom to forward emails and links regarding your political/spiritual beliefs or to sell your services.
6. Use emoticons. In casual chat room settings, emoticons can help convey feelings that may otherwise get lost in translation, including humor, exasperation, exhaustion and even confusion.
7. Respect others' privacy. Don't give out another student's personal email address without permission.
8. Remember, if it's on the internet, it's everywhere. Don't share personal information about yourself in a public online forum, especially something that could put your safety or security at risk.

9. Follow the rules. Just as your online college posts guidelines related to academic integrity and student expectations, online forums also have rules of conduct. Make a point to read them every time, as they can vary from class to class.

10. Forgive and forget. If you're offended by something another student says online, keep in mind that you may have misunderstood their intentions. Give them the benefit of the doubt.

- Although ending a sentence with a preposition is considered incorrect, these constructions are used every day.

Tell

If you do not wish to be named, I will keep your name pseudo

And she said, tell my story that the world may know

Silence my pain no more, this burden I bear

But the people there, they don't care.

What in this world can be compared to this burden?

I've been crushed and pushed to a corner

It's dark and cold and lonely here

I am faded flower, in a winter garden.

God took away the one I loved the most

Can someone give me a good reason

Or I will consider this as a treason

Coz he was the one I needed the most.

Why, why death and grief? I asked God

Tell them I grieve with them, said God

I have no pleasure in the death of anyone

They will live again, when it's all said and done.

Tell the neighbour, to be the true neighbour

Tell the church, to awake from her slumber

Tell my people, to be my hands and my feet

And you my child, will you take the lead?

When God created the first man in the garden of Eden, He also created a companion for the man. Someone who could be his co-equal and be one with him. Hence, when two people become husband and wife, they become one. Yet, death has entered our world due to disobedience and this has caused separation, pain, and grief. The present poem talks about the burden widows carry after the loss of their husbands. When a woman gets married, she derives her identity from her husband. He becomes the source of strength and security for her. Yet, for a wife who loses her husband, life becomes dark and lonely with a million doubts and questions. In addition to this, she loses her sense of security, self-worth, and confidence. The challenge of single parenting, loneliness, identity, social stigma, financial constraints, and the likes set in. This affects her whole being: physically, emotionally, spiritually and psychologically.

Her life is forever altered although she seems to have healed along the way.

The present poem is a call for the church to help widows heal in their grief and share in their burden. It is a call for us to show our respect, empathy, and care for widows around us, who are indeed a group of people very close to the heart of God. The UN observes June 23rd as International Widows Day. If you know of any widow (I am certain you do): could be your sister, your aunt, your grandma, your next-door neighbour, or could be your mom, go ahead! make a call and let them know you care, pay a visit (maintain social distance though ☐) and show a little bit of love this year on International Widows Day. And unconsciously, you would be doing what Jesus would be doing if he was here with us today.

MEMOIRS OF A COLLEGE BOY

FOUR MEN.....

Shakti, Puri, Anil and Imraan were best friends.....

The story begins with Mr. Shakti. Semester break was over and classes were about to start. Mr. Shakti brought 2 big containers of chicken curry and handful packets of Axone pickle, which was made by his mother to share with his friends; and have a good time in hostel. BUT HE had another plan for chicken curry. Being a SHAKTI himself, he wanted to give the curry to his new side part girlfriend called Cara.

It was a gloomy day as usual so he put on his favorite overcoat and sprayed his roommate perfume and went to the college ground like a cheetah. There he saw his girl standing and waiting for him impatiently. Both of them greeted each other with a smile and he lovingly handed her the curry, pampering and reminding her to eat with love. Soon they both departed like Jack and Rose in Titanic.

He reached the hostel exactly at dinner time and all his hostel mates were waiting for him to open the curry and pickle he brought from home. He entered his room and bought the Axone pickle with a smile. Prior to dinner, his roommate had told everyone that they were all going to have chicken curry brought by Mr Shakti. Everyone ate the pickle in complete silence and departed from the dining room.

Meanwhile Mr. Shakti was lost in thoughts thinking about his sweet Cara. Suddenly a swift punch came from his roommate which landed on his arms. Perplexed he shouted 'Ki hoishe dost?'

His roommate finally replied 'Sathi, when you go home tell your mom about us and say for your love story we gave up the Murki mangso.'

Mr. Puri was never a punctual person. He would always tell his friends waiting for him at sumo taxi stand (BOC TO JOTSOMA) that he would reach in a minute and comes after an hour. He was also a business guy. He had a girlfriend named Rakhi Sawant who studied in Baptist College, (one of the reasons why he doesn't reach any place on time). He always carries a colorful back bag weighting more than 10kgs. His friends were always curious to know what was inside the bag.

One day he left his bag in the classroom and went for practical class. Seizing the opportunity, his friends silently peeped inside his back and found Avon cosmetic products. His friends then inquired him about those products. He honestly told them that it was Rakhi's products and he was helping her sell those products. With extreme seriousness and boldness he told his friends that this will make him FINANCIALLY stable and he will live a comfortable life with her in future.

Sadly, on the next day Rakhi broke up with him with an excuse that he was not a good businessman. From that day he became allergic to Avon products. He says "An Avon a day keeps the handsomeness away"

Mr. Anil never dreamt of having a girlfriend. He doesn't have a close female friend and was socially distant to his classmate girls as well. He has a best friend who keeps countless contact number of girls from the college. One day as he was going back home, he came across a lady of his choice called Zelda. Luckily his best friend had her phone number. So Mr Anil started texting her. She too replied him gracefully and their bond via WhatsApp grew stronger as day passes by, and they decided to meet. Mr .Anil invited Zelda to his house promising to gift her a cute puppy. Unknown to him, his mom was planning to sell the pup.

One that particular day, Mr.Anil was alone as his family members had gone to their native village. He called her up and she came. Both of them had a lengthy talk about this and that. The whole day passed by like a minute. And when it was time for her to leave, she asked for the puppy. Without any hesitation he gave her but with a condition to let him kiss her. The girl let him kissed her cheeks and she hurriedly left blushing. Surprisingly, after a day she never contacted him again. And till today his friends never know why.

Meanwhile on her return, Anil mother noticed the puppy was missing. Anil parents then scolded him badly. However their scolding abruptly ended when he shouted back at them saying "Puppy is the evil root of all types of love."

Mr. Imraan was one firm man who believes "True Love does exist". The much awaited WinFest began and his department was in charge of the lover nest department. The gang leader of his friends (Anil, Puri and Shakti), Imraan made a wonderful plans with his three friends to let him enter the Lover Nest along with his crush Miss Hande. He wanted to make friendship with her or much more than that. He was ever ready to let his friends grab him and throw him in the nest. 'I will pretend to resist if necessary' he said.

True to their plans, his friends brought him in the Lover Nest. He sat there waiting for her, making plans and wild imagination running on his mind. At last his friends brought a girl. Smiling from ear to ear, he peeped out to see.

Unfortunately his friends decided to prank him and they brought a wrong girl. Being in the same department with him, Imraan friends also increased the price of roses and chocolates by 5 times .After that incident his trust towards his harami friends lowered. However, on the last day of WinFest he was surprised to see his friends bringing her and marching toward the nest along with him. He smiled. She smiled. Shyly.

Happy Imraan became poetic and ended the story with a Quotation "Best friends make the bad times good and the good times unforgettable"

The End .

RUNNING THROUGH THE MEMORY LANE

Kohima Science College is not only an institution to educate but I call it my “Second Home”, “little paradise”. The prestigious institute it is; bestowed with serene nature and its mesmerizing beauty to behold, the social environment with the humbled and selfless inhabitants. Life in the campus had its own ups and downs that never failed to amaze me. Taking from the four seasons in a day to the cute samosas in Avino Hotel, to the peaceful evening walks, from the strong February winds that could push afar even a heavy weight person like me to the super beautiful cherry blossoms of November; every element had its significant in my memory lane of KSCJ.

Starting my journey in Kohima Science College as a very shy and timid person, I graduated with a self confidence higher than the tower behind the college. Not leaving behind my grades, it jumped up and down too; I experienced the lowest point of grades here as well as I had the joy to uplift it in time. My greatest fear wasn't breaking down but failing to build up back. This place taught me all; from falling to standing up again, from crying at petty issues to laughing out loud later for the same cause, from saving up every penny to spending it for a plate of galho at Phezhu and later peeping through the empty wallet. The journey runs along with the various activities of EU-CCF-Tribal Fellowships-Tribal Unions-Hostel-College, pumping on the adrenaline rush at all times. One would surely complain for too many to handle at a go, but later smile along for the lessons we learnt through it, teaching each one of us how to be efficient at every point: the sacrifice of a leader, the value of a follower, the strength of a listener and the duty of a doer.

The Five years journey of my life was more like a Five-Year planning of Indian Planning Commission: each term a new goal to execute but not all could succeed, but along the way I learnt that we have to go through failures sometimes. Life is not all roses, it has thorns too.

Talking about the roses, the Fresher's Social and Parting Social would be incomplete without anyone offering a rose to their admires, others might say its cheesy but we know how romantic it is to witness such occurrences {more if a friend is involve in it}. The decoration is so much awaited to be seen too. Adding to all this is the most excited part of the academic session that is the Winter Festival “WinFest”. The weather is usually at war with it, but it never drops down the excitement of the students or the faculties, drenched in the winter rain the players enthusiastically scores hyped up by the undying cheers from the other mates. No one is spared to have muddy shoes and yes, the various stalls set up by the various dept; among which the spectacular one is the LoveNest of the Geol-Geog dept, amidst the pleasant chaos to satisfy one's hunger, there is the EU tea stall; with the most cheerful waiter and waitresses and the never tired chefs of the world.

The start of the odd semester marks with the Student Council election, where I had a partial glimpse of how a general election worked in our society. Driving back on the academic track, the college got the most qualified lecturers who are supposedly more hard-working than the students itself. While some share a common humor with the students; the others are unique at their approach to teaching. Some drives at the speed of light, some walks with us along the speech, and some pushes us further to grow in knowledge; all in all a package of Dhamaka.

The place as a whole has so much to offer; you just have to take your hand forward and grab the opportunity.

REPORT

World Environment Day is a day of celebration. It is a day upon which, for over forty years, people of the world have advocated and acted for a healthy environment. From campus clean-ups to mass tree-plantation, to conducting several competitions, our college too, has come a long way to stand shoulder-to-shoulder for our planet.

Unlike the gone years, it was not made mandatory for the KSCJians to attend the celebration of the World Environment Day which was held on 5th June, 2020, because we all stand in solidarity with those suffering from the global pandemic, and as a need to protect the sick, poor and the vulnerable from the worst ravage of the Covid-19 disease.

This year, we couldn't take it to the forests and streets but the lectures, staffs and a handful of students who resides in and around the campus region, gathered and responsibly, with great zeal did the least that we can from the college's surroundings to the hostels and the roadsides, planting indigenous saplings and shedding off the weeds.

Everyone came ready with spades, machetes, sacks and besoms. We assembled at 09:00 a.m., after which our own share of task for the day was assigned. Trees were planted in every nook of the departments where space allowed, flowers and trees were seeded in all the main hostels, and we added some efforts to keep the football ground clean and green. While all the works were processed, we also maintained proper social distancing and completed the works.

The highlight of the afternoon was the refreshment served to all who attended and participated on the occasion.

The efforts will hopefully help in the pursuit of a healthier, happier and greener environment of the college.

A TALE OF TWO SUCCESSFUL STUDENT ENTREPRENEURS
OF KOHIMA SCIENCE COLLEGE

Hi guys, Idi here.

My entrepreneurial story is a very little and insignificant one to this bareh bareh sheher! It has, however helped me see the world in a different view. I remember how I prayed to God to help me become director in this business before graduation and then, I did give my best and leave the rest to Him. And He made me a Gold Director and starts my car program too. I'm actually amazed how God is being so generous to me, somebody who is very very conjus. So today, I often say, 'my cup overflows' because indeed it does. A lot of people ask me what my secret is to this humble success. I'm a shy person so I never get to say exactly what I feel but , there's really no secret to success. It's transparent hard work. You're the secret ingredient. You have to believe that God will deliver great things in your life and you'll be a story talked about even while you're wandering catching butterflies in a flower garden. Remember how Joshua and Caleb believed that God will deliver the Promised Land while the others doubted it was too good for them. Don't be the Ones who doubt. Because when you doubt, you fail the one who planned great things for you.

Some people tell me I've changed after this entrepreneurship thing hit me. I would say, the way they look at me changed and not me. I've always been a stubborn girl with 'havanna ooh na na' as my dialers tune. I'm still that girl! I aim to promote financial independence among students and moms. I'm imagining if every student had a small part time job, we won't need scholarships as much and it can be used for a bigger cause, for the sector of the society who need it more, also, when you carry your own water, you know the value of every drop. We would all be a little wiser when we try to understand the purity and essence of hard work at its core. I will firmly, always promote success through hard work and smart work. Never settle for anything less than what you promised yourself and your loved ones never settle for a job where you work not with passion and excitement but because you have to. Your job becomes your second home and will stick with you till the end. Choose one that corresponds to your creativity - a job can be fun.

A Student-Entrepreneur's Journey

Joining Kohima Science College, one of the prestigious colleges of Nagaland is one of the greatest blessings in my life.

I've got so many first experiences from this college. One of these many experiences was becoming a student entrepreneur. I joined ORIFLAME in my BSc. 2nd year and it has transformed my life in the most beautiful way possible.

It is even more beautiful because none of these things have I planned to happen.

To be honest I was neither a loyal customer to ORIFLAME nor have I ever thought of being a student entrepreneur. Though I always liked the idea of part time job ORIFLAME never crossed my mind.

After joining college there has been more free time for me compared to my Higher Secondary days. I spent my time reading Wattpad, watching YouTube videos, movies etc. Whilst my friend, Eli was associated with Oriflame and she was utilizing her free time there. One day she offered me to bring her points (product orders) and in return she would gift me Oriflame watch. Seizing the opportunity I brought her the points and seeing the success, she registered me in ORIFLAME and that's how my journey began with ORIFLAME with zero knowledge about the products, system, and zero experience in Business world.

This community of Oriflame are the world's most supportive and welcoming people. They taught me everything from the scratch, Training and mentoring me to take one step at a time.

I still remember my first paycheck, it was 192 rupees but that little amount paved my way to the world of financial independence at this young age. I have also grown so much as a person, mentally, emotionally and in physical confidence via everything I go through in the business.

In the end I would like to appeal all my friends, juniors and seniors to take courage to do something totally different from your type and get lots of experiences in your youth because the more you experience the wiser you will become.

OBITUARY

WE REMEMBER YOU

We remember you in a thousand different ways

We remember you running up to the classroom with your file in hand

We remember you calling our names for no reason at all

We remember you having lunch with us with the most satisfactory smile

We remember you for the nick names that you have given

We remember you for the stories that you have shared

We remember your smile and cheer for the days we were beaten down

We remember your kindness and compassion for when we needed a helping hand

We remember your patience as you listened to us and gave us sublime advices

We remember you as a person with one of the biggest and warmest hearts

We remember you as a friend, as a brother, as a companion, as Roll number 14 of Sec-D

But most of all, we remember you for insisting on doing everything under the sun in the name of “memories”

Those were indeed the most beautiful and cherished times for all of us.

We thank you for the friendship and love that you have blessed us with

Although you are no longer with us, you will always remain alive in our hearts and in our memories.

We will miss you forever.

In memory of our dear friend, Sangtsahvü Thüvüry (Atsa)

Department of Anthropology 2013-2016

Lt. Sangtsahvü Thüvüry (Atsa)

'Ohoi Good morning, morning khoi Nail cutter diwi ekbar' will be his usual routine. Also for memory of the very childish and intimate relationship we spent together at KSCJ; Along, Henmei, Nokshen, Kenneth, Veprezo and Besupa on the last evening walk, (which was also to be the last time we were supposed to be together) while dropping him off on foot to P. R Hill from Jotsoma, bought him a nail cutter as a farewell gift. Then, came this moment where we all went silent for a moment, then cracking the silence jokingly, ehhhh, ari murijawole ase kwa nahoi toh na, aro lok pawo toh, we agreed to hold a reunion at the earliest.....

Atsa was the most matured and understanding guy among us. He was fast to forgive and never did we for once see him get mad over any issue. He was always smiling. He was that one guy who had a very good relationship with everybody in the class and was liked and admired by all.

Even among the circle, in his absence, we would keep praising him for being the most considerate and the kindest hearted guy.

Nobody else would have handled the intensity and the weight of the insults and jokes that we direct at him better than he does.

Everything he did was for the welfare of his friends. He also always insisted whenever we do anything, eeeeeshhh its for memories, chalo let's do this.

Atsa,

Little did we know what u really meant when u said we are creating memories.

Little did we know that you had pain hidden behind those smiles

Little did we know you would leave us this early.

What I could not understand most is why have u chosen a time as this to leave us.

As childish as we were, little did we cared for our words and the consequences, so we kept joking to show our disapproval at a friend saying 'Ari tumi mura time, alak manu nahoi kina, apni laka sathi, ami han hi apni laka coffin bukhi wole ase hoh'...Shame on us we couldn't be there for you even at your last journey.

Sathi apni toh ami han ki bia paishe ola, maff kuri wi De, dunya laka situation diktar hu ja para ahina last goodbye wi kowo naparey huishe.

We are awestruck and saddened as much and we regret, to know that you have left us.

May God take you in peace to be with Him in His eternal abode.

For Reunion, see you at a Better time and Place where there will be no more pain or sorrows.

“UNDERSTANDING LIFE THROUGH MATHEMATICS”

Are you trying to solve a problem in your life? Have you been trying but failing to understand things that are happening?

A senior once said, “Life itself is mathematics... and i am able to perceive things better because of my dealings with this subject. We read the questions but don’t memorise them and instead, think of the best possible solution or the best way to tackle that problem. I simply don’t give up in my life because in math we don’t give up on finding a solution.”

True indeed! I can relate it so much to my life as well

“An equation for me has no meaning unless it expresses a thought of God”, a great mathematician Ramanujan added.

Math was a spiritual entity for him, yet not many mathematicians chose to view it so.

Ever thought why Mathematics existed and what would be its sole purpose on this earth?

- Of course, Math can be helpful for balancing your budget because you will have a good understanding of goOD to make sure that your costs are less than the money you have.
- And yeah! It is great to go to a restaurant with a friend who can quickly divide a check in their mind (or need not be in their mind) to determine how much each person needs to pay to split the bill. [i.e. when one is not giving a treat ^^]
- Also!! A great help while going for shopping [for example:- to quickly calculate a discounted price, or to determine whether you’ve been correctly charged when paying for a shoe at the store]

You actually do not need a Ph.D in math to develop some quick mental arithmetic skills; it can help you in this and other areas of your life in the long run.

In Math, problems become easier to solve when you have the basic root and know the formulae, theorems, lemma... to apply it.

Remark: Wrong formulae can lead you to a wrong solution.

Similarly, in life, we may have different problems but it all bottoms down to this – Do we have the foundation? If so, how deep is that foundation?

There is only one solid foundation i.e Jesus Christ. And if we want to have a firm foundation, we need to meditate on the word of God and live it out.

As life tends to infinity, it is surely going to converge to a point i.e Heaven or Hell.

There’s a saying, ‘Mathematics may not teach us how to add happiness or how to minus sadness. But, it does teach one important thing – Every problem has a solution.’

Yep! Indeed, in life, you and I face different problems but there is always a solution to it.

REMEMBER to apply the right formulae

FICTION: STORYTamed: The Oxy-MORON

Freshly baked bread from the morning bakery and chai in exotic china, the couch was comfortable like the womb and the smell from the green lavender candle calmed his nerves like you'd imagine a glass of sparkling champagne would. 'This mind is finally at peace', Mr Oxymo thought. He had been burnt to the core by work, and the constant babbles from his boss added to the misery. But this weekend, he was having it his way. He travelled a hundred and thirty seven miles just for a day alone in his cabin of "nothingness". He had his ill fated journal, his daily chai, and the self styled cabin with everything he needed to be an American (except that he was not one).

The neighborhood was filled with silent strangers and Mr Oxymo loved the fact that they never bothered to know him. His job as a communicator required much more socialisation than he wanted. But this moment was life as it was meant to be: the pure Self with the possession of the most naked desires; subject to no other judgment but self.

Charcoals from the fireplace were glowing red as if there was a small red bulb under each and it pleased him as far as his visual faculty was concerned. As the fire crackled, he nodded and as the fire crackled more, he nodded more. He was asleep.

At about thirteen hours and ten, a loud commotion was passing through the cabin. There was a shabby man of forty, a crowd and lots of honks from the cars that took the road less travelled by. Mr Oxymo, no longer soothed by the candle and the crackles, woke up with a headache.

Surprised by the aforementioned

Unusual and provoked by the disturbances, he headed out with his rifle that was hanging on the wall, untouched for months.

"HOW DARE YOU DENY ME MY PEACE! "

A rifle shot in the air.

"HOW DARE YOU!"

No one in the crowd seemed as frightened or surprised as the shabby man. And except the Shabby man, everyone was armed with a weapon of some sort: There were people with rifles, swords, spears, pistols and what not. All against the shabby man. Why they were against him, no one knew. Mr Oxymo joined the crowd to find out why.

As he walked towards the man, he could see that the man had been beaten up. The elbows were bruised and his lips were swollen. He made a shy movement to hide his eyes as Mr Oxymo approached.

"Why are they chasing you? What have you done wrong?", inquired Mr Oxymo.

Nothing, I've done nothing wrong." replied an innocent voice.

"It can't be, the majority is never wrong. You must have done something wrong. So wrong that you deserve a death penalty", came a voice as intimidating as that of a beast.

Surprisingly, this was Mr Oxymo himself. A cultured man of democracy, he considered himself.

"You're all mad" cried the man.

The crowd roared in anger.

"Punish him and Banish him", chanted the crowd in unison. The cars honked and weapons clanked against weapons to form a beat that went along the chant. Mr Oxymo raised a hand the crowd was silenced.

"Tell me why I should not punish and banish you?", asked Mr Oxymo.

The sad man, looked Mr Oxymo in the eyes and said, "I bring reason and restoration to this world of self, I am Thought and I am Restoration . I am the Logic that weeps in every political debate, Reason that's being suppressed in the schools and churches and temples, the Rooster that crows no more. I am the Destruction to the naked desires of the self."

The crowd fell silent. They knew that this man was insane. But they understood him. They had all in his shabby shoes before.

" TAME HIM! TAME HIM! "

They chanted in sympathy.

Mr Oxymo joined them.

As they were chanting, a small girl with a bowl appeared beside Mr Oxymo . Mr Oxymo disappeared into the crowd. The shabby man kneeled. The small girl dipped her tiny hand in the bowl and smeared a black paint over the eyes of the man.

He was TAMED.

THOUGHTS (MUSICIAN PERSPECTIVE)

"It doesn't matter what line of work or profession we choose in life. If you're happy and content with it, then that's the best joy one could ever find. It doesn't make sense working 9 to 5 almost every day of the week on a job that you were forced to work. Mix your passion with profession, that way you are happy and also earning from something you love doing."

"CORONA THOUGHTS"

Stay safe and stay at home,
Enjoy family time and don't roam,
Eat healthy home cooked food,
Try to stay in a positive mood.

Wash your hands for 20 seconds,
Order online and stop all your errands,
Santitize groceries, santitize veggies,
Santitize fruits and santitize munchies.

Indulge in some physical activity,
It's high time you built your immunity,
Talk to your family in person,
If you are away use virtual connection.

Read a book or cook a receipe,
Believe me it is a great therapy,
Do whatever you may like,
But please stay inside .

As the evil Corona is outside,
Ready to give you a tough fight,
It has spread across the world,
Killing children, young and adult .

The virus is secular and doesnt differentiate,
Between christian, hindu, muslims, Sikhs or any state,
Its favourite place is your lungs,
Where it thrives and become strong.

Our Doctors are working day and night ,
Please understand their plight,
They are risking their lives for us,
So that we live long without a fuss.

Let's pledge to help them ,
By staying home and doing our part,
Only you can stop it from spreading,
While we all go through this together
Stay home the world is begging.

"A Wonderful Journey With You"!

*Oh, what a marvelous love it is;
Having a journey with you,
We were strangers from different walks yesterday,
But today, you've become someone I adored most.
Never expected nor knew it'll be!*

*If this be a dream I'm dreaming;
Make me not wake up from the sleep,
That I'll have you by my side forever
And you'll have me by your side till my last breath!*

*Be my guider, be my mentor:
Correct me when I do wrong,
Help me stand firm if I'm to fall astray,
Make me see the beauties of life I haven' tknew
Take me for adventures, visit new astonishing places and enjoy its wonderful heritage.
Do make me feel the loves I never felt
And do never stop falling in love with me!*

*As days passes by and we keep moving ahead;
My heart's love always lingers and stuck around you,
My mind always thinks about you
And my eyes bring you close to me even when wide open.
Can't even imagine nor express more about this love.
That just knock me down into the blessed and beautiful love I'm with you!*

"A Love Thy Adored And A Soul Thy Loved"!

*Time passes by as quickly as a river;
That flows down straight to the ocean,
Which can't return to the stream anymore,
Like that of wonderful memories made (4)*

*Though only few moments spend together
That's full of melancholic tastes.
And often reminds me of her each time I recollect
Thy childhood days.
For were memories with a charming Soul! (8)*

*But, took our own path too early for we were too young then;
Sooner, Thy couldn't stop thinking of her,
Though never talk again even passes by,
But peep her from behind with a tragic smile over me (12)*

*For Thy with many Souls around.
Wondering if she've forgotten of Thy,
Whom she gave marvelous memories
Though spend little moments with Thy! (16)*

*Seeing her with someone, hurt Thy heart
For she was whom I adored for the first time!
Meeting her in conference after being adults:
Another moment of joy and happiness. (20)*

*For thousands of days, more often years passed by in a blink.
Start visiting her camp late at night;
If she happen to wait for Thy visit to her.
Met Souls gathered outside tents near fire, (24)*

*But never saw the only beautiful Soul Thy heart desire to see again.
Passing by her side with mates with smiles;
But Thy heart beats lingers only around her,
Eyes blinded, seeing her in imaginations (28)*

*And Thy mind never stop thinking of her
Like Thy do want and longed for her so long
For it was more often years loving her!
Which couldn't be expressed nor exposed! (32)*

*If you're someone's bride, partner tomorrow
Some kids mom, others' in-law;
Thy pray and hope life treat you kind,
Wish nothing from you, (36)*

*But the best in everything ahead of you.
For Thy loves never to be gone.
If you shall need a hand of mine anytime,
I'll be glad to give my hands to you (40)*

*For you'll forever have this poor man by your side.
Oh, the love Thy adored, a Soul Thy loved;
Go, see the beauties of life ahead of you,
Catch them as you desire to be with, (44)*

*For you have the "Will" no more to me
Though Thy love from the core to the surface of Thy heart.
This love and Soul never to be forgotten.
Do think of Thy when you too think of love! (48)*

I saw you in a space with some folk.
 You were seated at the end of a settee with your cross legged like your old ways.
 All the corrugation on your features were gone, blooming like it was in the portrait I saw at grandma's.

'She never led a factual lane",
 you said to me pointing at her,
 while I was wailing
 my 19 years of ache,
 but she lied down
 with her fourth son sloppily.
 He was her darling son.

The firstborn daughter sat there lament in guilt.
 Oh! How she grief what she did when she was breathing.
 My poor soul broke as I eyed her.
 But her mother didn't seem to care.

I saw you sitting on that settee with your old ways
 for the first time in 10 years after you passed away.
 Oh, how you bloomed that morning
 I saw you.
 Oh, how it had been 10 years since I last saw you.

College Days

A crush confession to lovers
 Late-night movies to rushed
 Assignments and skipping classes
 Cafeterias and holidays
 Exams and punishment
 Strangers to BFF's.

Days went by,
 Picking every lapse lettered

 Allowing time to crept in and filch away slowly

CRUCH MADNESS

Crazy little mind madness;

How do I still remember the day my eyes saw you;

Since the first day of college life, complete stranger but I had a crush on you. Our accidental talk makes me the happiest being. Of all the beautiful and amazing creation, you are the most handsome and I admire you the most.

Thank you! for existing in this life.

Crazy little heart madness;

How could I forget, when you gave me the oranges,

Making my cheeks redden like a blushing blossom roses; greediness wishing to keep it without sharing with friends; yet swallowing it was like a magic love spell.

Thank you! for making my heart flutter unknowingly.

Crazy little love madness;

How i do gather up the courage at the eleventh hour going into the love nest and exchanged red roses. Memories still fresh inside unlike the rose, although dried up not withered. Those sweet night talks and walk over my hostel.

Thank you! for being the kindest.

Crazy smile madness of yours;

The day you smiled and waved at me in spite the distance, only heaven knows the happiness inside me making my whole body numb. Butterflies all ran inside my stomach as I shared it to my besties.

Thank you! for always being the source of my happiness.

LINES AND THOUGHTS

I believe in the future
 And I don't care if other people laugh at me for it
 Your wild running passion make you sparkle.
 You're blinding me, but I still want to watch
 Somehow you give me a sense of beauty
 I am really stuck on you WOW!
 The end of a dream that is like no other,
 I'll chase it
 Until that dramatic movement is in my grasp
 You're all I need to have the strength to believe,
 Believe in Wonderland.
 The shape of a dream that resemble no other
 I'll capture it and capture it again
 However crazy they seem.
 I'll be following that warm feeling to Reach you and I won't stop till I get there,
 I run towards paradise, there is no limit to us
 We have the power of love
 And we don't wanna live ordinary lives
 We have the chance to live in Paradise
 Believe in Wonderland!

“Respected Seniors”

Seniors I have something for you

I could remember
 Talking to my senior in my hostel
 With a bit of fear
 Sigh!
 When brother Saku
 Called me
 I thought he would bully me
 Such was my fear
 He just told me things in a very friendly way,
 And then when brother Moilong (games and sports secretary),
 and some other seniors came for a visit,
 It did scare me a bit,
 But I still can remember how they talked with us
 In a very clear way, for a minute I forgot he was my senior...
 Such are my seniors
 Respected seniors

One thing I would boast around about my college is about the seniors I have in the college
 All the seniors...

I want to tell something to the outgoing batch...
 As I look back
 I could remember
 The fresher's day, how you seniors worked late till night,
 To make that day a great event, a memorable one

The immediate senior, there is still a year,
 But outgoing seniors,
 How I wish I could host, organise a great farewell day for you all, like the day u welcomed me as a fresher....
 Still hoping to make it possible but no one knows what will happen in just a blink of an eye..

How I wish, to greet you as u enter the hall
 How I wish, I could cheer for you all

How I wish, I could get a good bye hug
 How I wish, I could give u a token of appreciation for you all

But after every dawn,
 There is a new day that waits...
 I hope and it's a prayer I make
 That what I wish,
 Will do come true..

I want to write down some lines for you all

ArrshhhKiyahain

Dear seniors lots of love from our side,
 Thank you so much for everything you guys did for us
 God bless you all

Untill we meet....

SPIRITUAL REALM

WHAT'S YOUR PURPOSE IN LIFE?

Do you ever look out and stare at the stars and realized how big our universe is? And realized how small you are? Do you ever stopped and ponder what's the meaning of your life is? Do you ever ponder what's your purpose is? Do you ever feel like you are in a journey in life and don't know where you are heading?

Is the purpose of your life to make name for yourself? - To be heard, to be seen by millions. Most people spend their whole life chasing after the worldly desires. The consequences outcome of running after the worldly desires is that you will lose your identity of who you are and ultimately you will have no true purpose in life. What many people want is self- gratification, all they want is to be liked and accepted, in this way, their self-worth purpose of living start solely based on how many social media likes they gets. They will find themselves being victims of living a life of, 'self image' which lead them to live a life of, 'self-comparison' where they won't get satisfaction over what they have and will always want more and more and lead into depression. However, if you start believing in God and if you believed you are created by God for a purpose, then only you'll able to live fully and find your inner peace. God love you so much. He created you for a 'specific purpose'. He knew you even before you were conceive in your mother's womb. He cared you so much about the life you are living. You are a beautiful masterpiece of God. Therefore, you are created in God's image to live a life of purpose, to do extraordinary things for the glory of God.

If you give yourself completely to God, you'll be truly at peace. Everybody eventually surrender to something. If you don't surrender your life to God, you will surrender to something rather your ego, money, lust, resentment, pride, fear or expectations of others. You are designed to worship our God, our creator. When Jesus died on the cross for you, he said, 'it is finished'. You are set free in Christ. You know your true friend will celebrate you once in a year on your birthday. But heavenly father celebrate you every day for the life of yours. You are His child, He loves you unconditionally. In life you have two paths where you can choose; you can either choose to walk with God where you'll live happily with God eternally, or you can choose to walk a path of loneliness, where you won't ever have relationship with God and it will destroy you.

Anything your name is attached to, live a life in such a way that everything you do, you'll do it for the glory of God. God has given us all different talents to serve others, used it for the glory of God. Don't be afraid to unlock more and more talents. You never know how great you are at something until you try it.

Once you put your faith in God and you trust Him whole heartedly, you will start to live a life without fear. You'll realise that all things are possible with God and that God's Holy Spirit is inside you. Do you ever realized that God who created the heaven and the earth, have full power to choose where to live? He chose to live inside of you. Your body is a temple of God and you have Holy Spirit living inside you. If you live a life to seek the Lord with all your heart, you'll find Him.

Seek God with all your heart, with all your soul and live a life of purpose for the glory Of God.

EVERLASTING FOUNDATION (PROVERBS 10: 25)Which one are you among them?*A Wise son or a foolish son?

~ A wise son makes his father proud of him; a foolish one brings his mother grief. Intelligent people talk sense, but stupid people need to be punished. The wise get all the knowledge they can, but when fools speak, trouble is not far off. Anyone who spread gossip is a fool. The more you talk, the more likely you are to sin. If you are wise, you will keep quite. It is foolish to enjoy doing wrong. Intelligent people take pleasure in wisdom. (Proverbs 10:1,13,14,18,19 & 23).

Do you work with honesty or dishonesty?

~ Wealth that you get by dishonesty will do you no good, but honesty can save your life. Honest people are safe and secure, but the dishonest will be caught. It is the Lord's blessing that makes you wealthy. Hard work can make you no richer (Proverbs 10: 2,9,22&29).

Which one profit you "lazy" or "hard work"?

~ being lazy will make you poor, but hard work will make you rich. Never get a lazy man to do something for you, he will be as irritating as vinegar on your teeth or smoke in your eyes (Proverbs 10: 4&26).

Are you a good man or a wicked man?

~ The Lord will not let good people go hungry, but he will keep the wicked from getting what they want. A good man will receive blessings. A wicked man's words hide a violent nature. Good people will be remembered as a blessing, but the wicked will soon be forgotten. A good man's words are a fountain of life but a wicked man's words hide a violent nature. A good man's words are like pure silver; a wicked man's ideas are worthless. A good man's words will benefit many people, but you can kill yourself with stupidity.

The righteous get what they want, but the wicked will get what they fear most. Storms come, and the wicked are blown away. Obey the Lord, and you will live longer. The wicked die before their time. The hopes of good men lead to joy, but wicked people can look forward to nothing. Righteous people will always have security, but the wicked people will not survive in the land. Righteous people speak wisdom, but the tongue that speaks evil will be stopped. Righteous people know the kind thing to say, but the wicked are always saying things that hurt (Proverbs 10: 3,6,7,11,20,21,24,25,27,28,30,31&32).

Are you a sensible man or not?

~ A sensible man gathers the crops when they are ready; it is a disgrace to sleep through the time of harvest. Sensible people accept good advice. People who talk foolishly will come to ruin (Proverbs 10: 5&8).

Do you listen to people when you are corrected?
Do you usually admit that you are wrong?

~ People who listen when they are corrected will live, but those who will not admit that they are wrong are in danger (Proverbs 10:17).

A Man of Love or Hate?

~Love is what I chose.

~Because, hate stirs up trouble, but love overlooks all offences. A man who hides his hatred is a liar (Proverbs10:12&18).

Do you have an everlasting foundation?

Be a wise son, work with honesty, always work hard, be a good man and woman, be a sensible person, listen to people when you are corrected because sometimes we can be at wronged and lastly, always have love for one another.

As Proverbs 10:10 says, "Someone who holds back the truth causes trouble, but one who openly criticizes works for peace."

SPIRITUAL REALM

FINDING GOD'S HAND

Have you ever searched for something in one spot but as you can't find it you go looking elsewhere, only to come back to the same spot and find it there...the item was there the entire time, you just didn't see it.

Well, this kind of situations sums me up finding God's hand in the events of my life. When I was seeped in a situation, I would search for God and not find Him. When the things I dreaded happened, I felt like He was absent but as I look back to those situations, I see He was present all along.

Once I was conversing with my friend about his church. He told me that it was a difficult but miraculous journey, and when they look back at the church's growth, they see God's hand in everything. Looking back instead of seeing the difficulty, the long hours of efforts etc they saw more of God's hand. This got me to sit and reflect on my own life so far. And to sum it up, I realized this: Throughout so many past events, I can see nothing but God's hand in all, especially in those times when I thought He was absent! All along, His knowledge, insights and plans were greater than mine.

Both the good and bad experiences, unexpected twists and turns all worked together beautifully to shape my life. I never knew my bad experiences would contribute to my purpose, but it did. When I look back especially at my bad experiences I don't see or feel much of the hurt, pain or efforts but I see more of his hand guiding me. As I pondered on how and where exactly He was present, I see Him in the life of the people close to me, in the friends and dear ones I talked to, even in both major situations and mere happenstance that lead me and in what Jesus taught through His life and Word.

Each of us has a unique story to tell but it all speaks about the same love of God and how great of a weaver He is. I like to say we are all strings been woven into something. We are pulled, stitched, dyed, poked and even interlaced to form an intricate pattern, a part of a grander design.

As I looked into the heart of the Grand Weaver, I see that His hands were already there, not only in my life but before the start and fall of this world, and 2000 years ago when He put His Only Son on the cross to create a way for mankind to be reconciled with God and enter eternity.

He's so great that the heavens and earth can't contain Him, but He so humbly bends down to everyone's life individually and over flowingly.

When we realize how far God's hand can stretch for determining the purpose we will serve, for moulding us, even deciding our people and family, to the extent of aligning and interweaving His Son's fate with ours, we see how much work God has put into, orchestrating it all and we also see the grand grace-filled design.

It took a long time for me to understand His hand in my Life. I always thought life is vague and I kind of question everything. That's because I put human thoughts and self-righteousness before His higher ways and thoughts which exceeds far beyond my knowledge so I am trying to have faith before the answer is given, to submit myself to His will and I realise that my everyday small blessings are a sum of a big miracle weaving into something grand.

May we walk by faith and not by sight!

SPIRITUAL REALM

“I CAN’T CARRY ON ANY LONGER!”

“Yes, you would never understand what I’m battling!” yelled me inside. Felt despised, neglected, lonely...no one would get me, my pain. NO ONE, was what I have poisoned my mind with. I would read and meditate on the word of God and would be blessed but only to find myself trap again. Yes, I was like the seed on the thorny bush. Sadness and sorrow of this world would fill me all over right after the blessing. That was going on for many years.

I am one of the victims from another broken relationship like you. So much has happened in my life as well and I was so blinded by the worldly desires and pains. I have thoughts that are of this world and not from God. Anyway, long-story short, I came to know more about Christ while I was in my higher sec. school through a friend (an Angel. God bless you). However, God opened my eyes after joining KSCJ. So much has happened ever-since, amidst lots of ups and downs (still). But now I have realised that “I can do all things through Christ who gives me strength.”

I still battle with lots of things. I am not a perfect spiritual girl. At times I condemn myself and hate myself so much that I would question God for all the things I’ve done, as though it was His mistake. All along it was my choice. See, lied by the father of lies. I took God’s love for granted and gave myself to the devil by permitting him to pour more lies into my mind. Still, God loves me.

Ps. 34: 18 says, “The Lord is close to the broken – hearted and saves those who are crushed in spirit.” Amen.

Throughout my “valley of the shadow of death”- experience, I had the most tragic and terrified feeling that God has left me forever to doom...I cannot express how sorrowful my soul was at that point. Then with the thought I decided to open my Bible with just one hope – to find God’s message.

Brothers and Sisters, this was what God told me, “Since you are precious and honoured in my sight, and because I LOVE YOU, I will give men in exchange for you, and people in exchange for your life.” (Is. 43:4) and more from Is. 62:3, Zeph. 3:17 and Jer.31:3 Oooohhh...the Love of God!

You may have thoughts that say you cannot carry on any longer for a reason or more, I don’t know or allow yourself to think you’re the worst because of all the untold things you have said or done...but hold on...listen to God, ignore the lies. He will use you one day for who you are now because His word response “God chose the foolish things of the world to shame the wise; God chose the weak things of the world to shame the strong.” (1Cor. 1:27) If you have no purpose from God, why would the evil burden you this big?

Family, in these last days, it is either going to be you alone or you and God. No one would be able to change another person only Christ, however, your choice. The Bible tells us that in these last days, men would be lover of themselves, disobedient to parents, etc. but hey, it is not too late, alright? “If you seek Me with all your heart, you will find Me.” (Jer. 29: 12,13) and “Delight yourself in the Lord and He will give you the desires of your heart.” (Ps. 37: 4)

May God forgive me if I have sought my own mind, Amen.

SPIRITUAL REALM

DEPRESSION AND JESUS.

Who would have thought I would think such a thought? I knew so well there is a heaven and there is a place called hell. For some reason, I wasn't scared of death anymore. To put it bluntly, I wanted to get rid of myself from this world. A number of times the whisper of the devil would fill my body. I was at my darkest moment. I developed breathing problem and I felt so cold. My heart would go so icy cold that I had to keep something warm near my chest or sometimes I would hug myself so tight and cried inside. I couldn't shed tears outside for some reason. I was death inside. All these happened because I have rebelled God. But God in all His majesty and glory and grace, He forgave me completely and time and again, I am convinced not to look back because God forgives and forgets.

In my alarm I said, "I am cut off from your sight!" Yet you heard my cry for mercy when I called to you for help. Psalm 31:22

My dear friends, today I have a message to tell you. No amount of weapon formed against you shall prosper, why? Because you are a child of God and your body is a temple of God. What would you gain harming yourself? And always keep in mind, depression is not just a word, it is so much than a feeling or emotion. As you battle, battle with Jesus by your side because you cannot do it alone. To the people who is a little new to this, do not take it for granted. Try to reason out and TALK with the person in need. YOU do not know what little thing you could do to that person. Best Advice is- speak the love of God and pray for that person.

"Never will I leave you; never will I forsake you." Heb. 13:5

(Pray for me and for one another always in Jesus Christ, My Saviour)

(Footnote: These are some contributions from two groups – Prayers For India (PFI) and Motivational Group (MG). I thank you all so much for your blessings shared via articles. May God bless you all and to the readers as well. Another 'Thank you' to the literary club for giving us this opportunity to share our testimonies and the love of God.

Finally, there is One and Only Person who deserves all praises above all name- Jesus Christ, without Him, everything would remain futile and it is not by works lest men should boast, but by His grace. May the grace of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ be with you all, Amen.)

SURVEY

To further strengthen the online education, online class etc., a short survey was conducted to students on the topic, 'Pros and Cons of Online Class. Suggestion for improvement, if any.' While 100% of students has expressed their appreciation to lecturers for taking online classes, Some few selected feedbacks are given below.

Medium Used for Online class in KSCJ:

-Google Meet, Google Classroom, Telegram, Zoom and WhatsApp

PROS

- Easier to learn when someone is talking to you
- Bring education right to our home
- Offer flexibility and individual attention.
- Promote life long learning
- Because one's perspective because of various studying platforms.
- Enables a comfortable interaction with teachers.

CONS

- Network inconvenience in most places
- A little distraction, you miss important explanation
- Problematic for those who are not tech-savvy.
- Inability to conduct practical class because practical's are MVP's of Science
- Online class create a sense of isolation

SUGGESTIONS

- Pre-recorded videos and audios for future references will surely benefit the students.
- Setting up a white board while teaching or some live classes in Youtube.
- Tallying attendance basing on online class is unfair for those with unstable network connection.
- Lately cases of depressing has increased at an alarming rate. It will be good to have an article from the student counseling committee.

The pandemic Covid-19 has paused almost all activities for the human population but with just the survival needs and basic essentials, we're gradually adapting to this whole phenomenon. The education sector across the globe along with the other sectors is at halt. Schools, colleges, Universities and institutions have been shut, however with the internet accessibility; we are able to resume classes with the little we can. In such difficult times, the only possibility is through virtual learning. Online mode of classes is helping students to attend class lectures within the comforts of home also not awaiting the pandemic to be over which in Particular is very optimistic towards the situation. But along with its positive impact, there are also a few drawbacks to this i.e poor connectivity for students in rural areas, inability to reach out to every student individually, teachers are unable to assess the students response as to how well the lessons are grasped, lack of mutual interaction within the virtual classroom etc. We are all amateur to this but we deem the efforts of our teachers despite all the obstacles they've been tra- vailing to reach out to the student community. Stating to all these, I would like to propound on two suggestions if it could be of any help to improvise the virtual classes:

- 1) Pre-made videos of class lectures
- 2) Setting up a white board can be a recourse to help better teaching. Or live classes via YouTube

Thankyou!!

To all the KSCJAINS, Stay healthy, stay safe! Everyone's fighting through this pandemic and hoping that we'll certainly be back again to our normal days.

LOCK DOWN INNOVATION

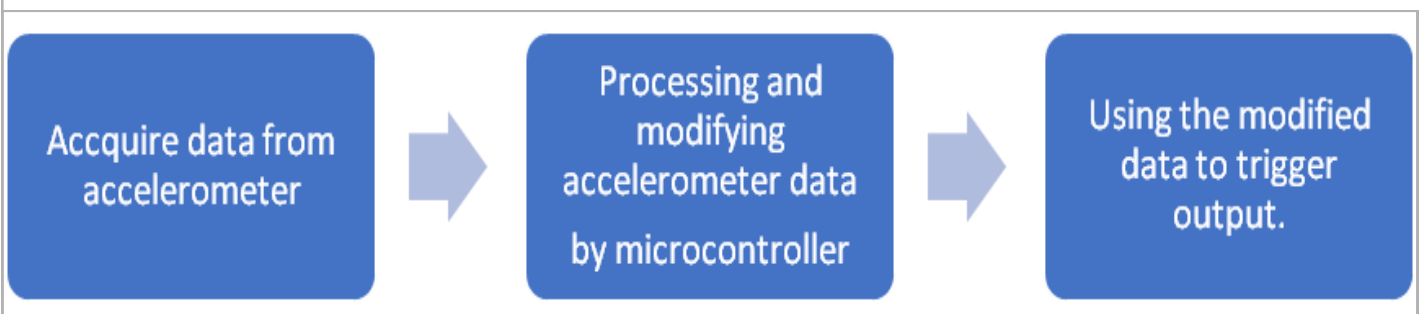

SENSITIVE EARTHQUAKE DETECTOR

With a number of seismic activities felt in some major earthquake prone areas, the necessity to safeguard the lives of people is the need of the hour. Predicting an earthquake is very difficult. Therefore, an early seismic wave detection system is required. Post-earthquake, the structural damages to some buildings and workplace that uses/houses hazardous materials and appliances renders the buildings risky for rescue or recovery operations.

A sensor is developed to counter this problem. This will ensure that people are alerted about earthquakes and at the same time, shutting down of hazardous appliances, gas related appliances, mechanical devices etc take place.

Before an earthquake arrives (the ones that wobbles you) a small seismic wave is recorded by a seismograph. This is a P-wave and is non-destructive. Humans can't detect this wave. To detect this seismic wave an accelerometer is used. An accelerometer is a sensor that measures the relative acceleration exerted on it in three axis (X,Y,Z). This will measure the movement of the ground.

The accelerometer sensor used here is called MPU-6050. To interface with this sensor for acquiring data, a popular microcontroller is used. My personal favourite in the world of embedded electronics the Arduino uno. The flowchart below gives the basic function of the detector/sensor.

The accelerometer samples out three raw data for acceleration in x, y and z axis. To modify these data for processing a simple algorithm is created by programming the microcontroller.

Image: The image on the left shows a working prototype of the earthquake detector.

The purpose of the components shown at the right side of the breadboard is to run some seismic wave simulations, and is not a part of the detector

LOCK DOWN INNOVATION

What are the components used?

The sensor consists of a microcontroller(Arduino UNO), an accelerometer(MPU 6050), led array(for visual output), 555 IC timer in monostable mode and a buzzer(for audible output).

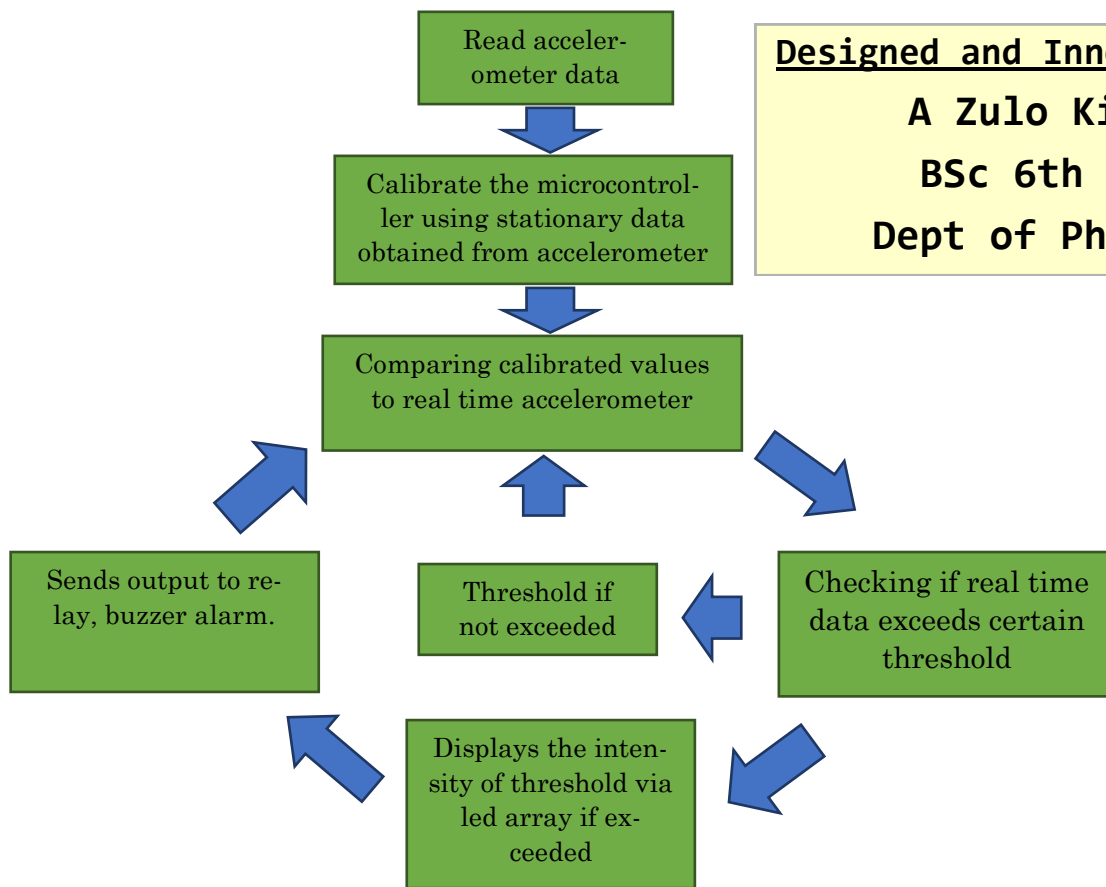

How does it work?

The microcontroller reads the data from the accelerometer and modifies it using an algorithm. Once the data from the accelerometer crosses a threshold (P-wave detected), it triggers an output signal to the I/O interface of the microcontroller. The output here is an array of leds to display the intensity of the P-wave. A buzzer is attached to the output pin of a 555ic timer whose trigger is set by the output of the microcontroller. The buzzer goes high for a time set by the 555 timer when the said threshold is exceeded.

The output can be made to drive relays to divert/kill power, stop a water or gas valve etc.

The flowchart for the algorithm is given below.

Applications:

1. In factories where flammable gas is used, the detector can stop valves before any damage occurs.
2. All electrical line connections can be made to shut off so that fires don't erupt.
3. Manufacturing units/assembly can be powered down without any human intervention.
4. As the delay between P and S waves (destructive waves) ranges from 60-90 seconds for major earthquake, the detector can give an early signal for evacuation and preparation once the P wave is detected.

Limitations:

The detector may read false data triggered by surrounding disturbances like running vehicles, constructions near the detector or error within the accelerometer etc. To counter this, three or more detectors can be used to sample data at different locations. As this is just the initial development, I made use of a single detector.

While the whole nation is crippled with the Covid-19 pandemic, our students continue to do something productive. Given below are some of their hand made work, graciously submitted.

‘LOW BUDGET HERBARIUM CHAMBER’

First of all I would like to thank the ELegend Electric rice cooker company for providing such a good material carton for me to recycle it into a herbarium chamber. (Just Kidding)

A herbarium chamber is built for the purpose drying and pressing the plant specimens. It has wooden frames tied up with belts to press the plants and two light bulbs on either side to dry the plants. This is done so to preserve their color and shape of the specimen. The plant specimen once dried and finely pressed can be then pasted on to herbarium sheet which documents that particular plant species.

With the ongoing lockdown, we have made best use of what is available to proceed with the dissertation. So here's a low-budget, made from, home herbarium chamber.

SHOUT-OUT!

You tube is no doubt , the biggest video sharing service in the world . It would certainly be a surprise if that changed anytime soon!

Most of us use their website or app on a daily basis, whether it's from going video to video until we end up watching conspiracy theories, or just to entertain ourselves with cute cat videos .

Being a YouTuber seems like a fun and lucrative profession . We think they make videos on topics that we like and make money off of them, however, becoming an established YouTuber is no easy feat.

Despite so much that needs to be done in the college syllabus, our very own YouTubers puts in time , efforts and a lot of creativity to make their passion sparkle.

So, it is with special excitement that I'm pleased to introduce to you the channels of KSCJ YouTubers.

• Akiyeto Sumi

Looking for some return ticket to moments of KSCJ functions ? Look no further. We have a wonderful collection of memories to be shown , crammed into one channel .

Akiyeto Sumi sacrifices his own moments , in order to make our moments .Check him out and make sure to subscribe to his channel as he takes us back down the memory lane.

You will uncover intriguing facts about Sumis and many more exciting things too.

•Naga Kiddos

Three young actors creating original skits and characters and publishing contents intended to make people laugh, among them our student Alang Imchen is in the team.

They are unabashedly self-deprecating and have excellent observational skills. For that, they deserve your subscription. You can never regret doing so. What are you waiting for ??? Go, check them out and have some good laugh. TEMOKO !!

•PHYSICS SERIES

A channel managed by Manlem Konyak, who is pursuing his M.Sc in Physics .

This channel focuses on providing educational tutorial videos related to physics subject especially for school students and systematically solving NSEE physics questions too. They try to provide thought provoking and interesting videos for young target audiences. Don't you think we need to support them ? You can show your love and support by subscribing to their channel.

• Lemkhiung Yinchunger

A rising singer who recently stormed KSCJ with a cover song of 'Photograph' by Ed Sheeran. The newest channel in the list, please go and subscribe for more amazing songs.

SHOUT-OUT!

• Zarenthung Yan

Music are forerunners to all the contends on YouTube . We are among the ones who loves music . Why not support our own brother who publishes covers of popular songs and K-Pop as well.

His channel is a destination to discover talent and passion. It's a heart warming place for cooking connoisseurs and those just learning to cook too . Tune in and subscribe to his channel .

•Yiko Pfithu

Who doesn't like a leg up when it comes to watching people having fun. This channel will mesmerize you with how exactly science students have fun, not little but a whole-lot ! It will ferry you with a motley Crew of people who are classmates.

Join them as they unravel cocooned within their existential world. They will surely make you wish you are back to college. Subscribe to the channel , definitely something to watch out for.

•Libra The Blue

This channel shares joy. Encapsulates the bold voice through his reaction videos , he delves into his ideas and explores his intellectual context by the art of reacting. Entertains through cover songs and post video of the college friends fun happenings.

You gotta flock to this channel and ensure your subscription.

•Rose ro-seh

One of the growing up and growing away channel you need to check out and subscribe. Purely made for entertainment . A great way to calm yourself listening to her magnetically soft voice .

Her "how to " videos serves like bread and butter. A perfect combination of education and utility, you would realize you can't get enough of them.

•IK Information and Knowledge

What does it take to start learning higher level physics ? No matter how much you prepare, you'll come up against roadblocks. The key to being successful is knowing you can work hard and of course having someone by your side to guide you .

This channel aims to help you understand higher level physics in simple terms . What more can be more helpful. Is that not? This surely will make you experience perfect in-flight learning . It is managed by a research scholar from Physics dept.

•Kevi think:

They say If you want to marry an Angami, call your boyfriend as 'npuo' and learn to sing 'ara kezevi and Methaneilie jütakhrie- Kekhrie.

Then you are the bae of Angami tribe. Galho moudi and Zutho are bonus.

But for lifelong commitment, please tune to Kv Think. Deals with tenyidie songs like choirs, praise and worship etc.

Check out, subscribe and learn the easy way. Compiled by Weto Kreo & Thejase-e Nagi

The dream of every Science College student was/is/will be to climb up there at least once. Likewise mine too. So, if at all, it is allowed, please update us all.
