WHEN IN DOUBT

Lately, things are quite hassled and you doubt if there's any future. This is the time when you have to decide what your top priorities are, yet fail to choose which or which. There will be situations where you'll be led to different zones of choosing paths but end up failing to pick the right one. The year has just started but seems like this outlandish situation will never end. So, what one needs to know or act upon is differentiate the right priority. However, the hardest thing in life is to know which bridge to cross and which to burn. The bridge you choose to burn will definitely bother you. Think wisely and select the ones you think is gainful. You may feel that life is harder and more complicated, nevertheless it's never easy, so pray for strength to endure it. You've still got your life's ahead. Live it like your last but remember, your life is perishable, so live it accordingly.

Titanic sank but do not let your heart sink along with it. Let your heart sink by making "YOU" as the top priority.

*Stating the finishing note with my favorite awaiting lines,
"When in doubt, CHOOSE YOURSELF"*

It takes great courage to see the world in all its tainted glory, and still to love it.
~ Oscar Wilde

The sky looks sad,
So am I.
Heavens scorns down at me
And hell rejoices its triumph
Oh! My soul, I am deprived
Why must I go on?
Angels weep at my sight; oh
To long for what I cannot have
I shudder but cannot stop
This will of mine I have no control over
Has completely besotted another
soul,
And so another tragedy begins...

Pieced, torn, junctured in life
Left, right, pointless dilemma;
If only you could revive
the warmth in me again, shall I be free like winds in the sand.

THE AWKWARD REUNION

(@Memes And Dreams)

MSc Physics

Sedevinu Sale was sitting in the couch waiting for the dentist with her six years old son. It was his first appointment with the new dentist. The Meraki Dental Clinic was the talk of the town, renowned for its warm hospitality and genuine service. As she struggled to keep her rambunctious son from creating any havoc, the dentist walked in. She noticed his DDS diploma which showed his full name. Emblazoned in gold colour, his name was written in bold: Jack Kire.

Suddenly she remembered a tall, handsome dark-haired boy with the same name who had been in her higher secondary class, some 17-odd years ago. Could this be the same nerd who had a knack for studies way back then? They have never met after passing 12th exams. Seeing the admission receipt, he took her child for check-up, pampering the little kid along the way.

Upon his disappearance, Sede tried to discard her thought yet her curiosity overwhelmed her.

“No he cannot be my classmate” she reckoned. “This bald, grey-haired man with the deeply-lined face is WAY TOO OLD to be my classmate.” She began to think. Although Jack was a geek back then, he was still athletic. He loves playing basketball and table tennis in the evening.

This made him extremely fit.

“Surely my classmate Jack is way younger than him” she concluded.

After the doctor examined the little boy, Sede mustered her courage. She asked if he attend his higher secondary in Kohima Science College Jotsoma.

“Yes ma’am. Yes I did. I am a proud KSCian” Jack replied, beamed with pride and happiness.

“What? Really?” Sede could not conceal her excitement.

“When did you complete your HSSLC?” she asked again.

He answered, “2017. Why do you ask?”

“Jack! You were in my class!” she exclaimed. “Do you remember me?” Sede was really thrilled at the state of sudden reunion.

Spectacles adjusted, Jack look at her carefully.

Then that stupid, idiot, old, fat, bald wrinkled, grey, non-sense, decrepit son-of-a-gun asked,

“Ma’am what subject did you teach?”
