Student & Social Responsibilities

Remember “Small actions can lead to big and positive changes in society”.

We talk about social responsibilities everyday but do we really practice it in our daily lives? Socially responsibility in broader sense is taking responsibility for one action and minimize the impact those actions have on society, culture and the environment. We have come across corporate companies and governments fulfilling social responsibilities towards the welfare of the society. But are social responsibilities sole liability of the corporate world or the government? Do the youth have nothing to do with it? Won't little efforts count? - it will.

Taking small but important steps in the right direction is the key. To be a socially responsible student, a change of habit definitely doesn't have to be as tough and complicated. You too can make a difference by taking baby steps. You may be aware of different ways to help, but the question is, do you implement them? Are you from the group who blames the government for everything and doesn't pay a heed to the responsibilities as an individual? Well, don't you all think it's time to break that practice. By following some of these practices you can make a big difference in life:

Keeping the educational building and surrounding neighbourhood clean, conservation of our environment, attend classes regularly, complete assigned work on time, avoid making excuses for bad behaviour, remember academic integrity and honesty. Follow ethics because ethical code in life helps in understanding the difference between 'right' and 'wrong'. Respect diverse ideas and opinions

Respect elders. Communicate in a careful and respectful manner with Teachers, Seniors, Peers, and other members of the college community.

Be a volunteer, contribute to make a difference, condone any form of bullying/ragging, learn the existing knowledge and cultural heritage of the mankind.

Student responsibility starts when students take an active role in their learning by recognizing they are accountable for their academic success. As a student you play a crucial role in the future of humanity. Observe it, know what is positive and negative in it. You'll get an idea whether this society is going in a forward or backward direction, and which one is a better choice for a human to live a better life. It's time to take a look in the mirror to see if you are ready to be a socially responsible human being or not. The opportunities are endless. Make your choice!

Invictus

(unconquerable)

Out of the night that covers me,
Black as the pit from pole to pole,
I thank whatever gods may be
For my unconquerable soul.

In the fell clutch of circumstance
I have not winced nor cried aloud.
Under the bludgeonings of chance
My head is bloody, but unbowed.

Beyond this place of wrath and tears
Looms but the Horror of the shade,
And yet the menace of the years
Finds and shall find me unafraid.

It matters not how strait the gate,
How charged with punishments
the scroll,
I am the master of my fate,
I am the captain of my soul.

MEMORIES OF MY SWEETHEART

3rd April 26 2021, Dimapur.

It was the second time that I lost my beloved who I truly loved. Many beautiful ones came and went in my life but the last beloved was my everything I wanted her to be with me forever. The date was 8th July, 2020 when the online classes for the first semester of my new college (KSCJ) started, but I could not attend any of my class for the first week as my heart was completely broken at that time, since I lost my first beloved. She was indeed very kind and helpful and loved me dearly, but someone came and proposed her and she accepted and she was taken from me. Anger overtook me and my heart was shattered. As time passed I decided to let go and on the 2nd of August, just after the summer break I met a new girl, lockdown was imposed at that time so I had to spend lots of investment to get her, and so I got her and I was very happy and started attending college classes again. I chose her without a suggestion or opinion from anyone.

She was someone I could rely on fully and she would help me in everything, not a day passed by that I spent without her.

Without her my life would be meaningless, with her by my side I was the happiest man on earth I supposed. I took her for shopping on the 3rd of April, bought a beautiful shirt for her but when I reached home she was not with me and I came alone. I searched for her all the way round but she was nowhere to be found and so I asked myself if she found someone better than me? I tried to assure myself that she would not leave me because I loved her so much, I bet she wouldn't leave me. With all my efforts in vain and no other option I had to move to Kohima as normal classes were about to begin. As déjà vu would hit me, I suffered for about a week or two.

Offline classes were never a fun thing for me anymore. As they say the generation today needs their lover to stay.

Especially for most of the students, so I went on for the new one and she accepted me and now I am with my new girlfriend.

I still miss my last beloved though my new love tried her best to keep me happy and feel belonged and rebuild my broken heart.

My new girl's name is 'Redmi note 9', my first love was 'Redmi 8' and the one that came after was 'Redmi note 8'.

My love stories never had any happy endings.

My last words for my Ex-sweethearts,

"Thank you so much for everything and you are always missed in my every single heart beat"

Our Voyage

Under the abyss of youth
 Under the glamour of age
 We headed on a voyage
 Alone, in an open world
 Unable to realize the chaos of youth
 Unable to feel the cruelties of age
 We headed on a voyage
 Leaving our emotions in a "grief case"
 We crossed paths with youth and age
 In the midst of peace, we felt chaos
 In the midst of quietness, we shrivelled
 In the midst of life, we saw death
 Yet, under the unbending force
 We headed on a voyage

PRETENDING

I hate pretending every time
 Yet rich but poor
 My thoughts my mind sticked with Grime
 Hitched up my dress with open Door

Yet the world so Trendy
 Left me Haggard
 For is there any place for Remedy..?
 For my mind of Gizzard?

Oh. Rainbow of Disney World
 For I have no Colour
 Would! Accept my Thirst
 For I have no Water

Yet, Afford less but Cheapest
 For I'm Rich but Poor
 Forgive me..!
 For I hate Pretending every time..!

" If you get motivated or inspired from anything,
 may be by watching or by listening well then don't wait or don't postpone,
 Get up and do it.
 If you wait or get busy with the same thing,
 then it won't last any longer.
 As it is said nothing last long."

MY COLLEGE DAYS

Out of a thousand choices
He gave me this place to endure my college life,
Filled with natural scenic beauty.
Brilliant lecturers and smartest students,
I am glad that I met them and made friends.

My everyday class, going up by bus was Like a college trip, with a rush of getting
My seat and excitement of moving ahead to
A fairytale location up in the hill alone,
Gives a great view of the beautiful town of Kohima;

Days of my college life in this
Unexplainable beauty of Jotsoma, I can say
It was the best time.

And we were beautiful.

Learning what it means to trust someone
When we started with a simple 'Hi'

Moments turned into memories will be
Craved in the woods of my heart,
Leaving only the trail behind;
Yet many to be explored, but time waits for none,
The most beautiful, yet the shortest.
I hope our future be bright with the taste of time so pure.
I'll cherish and love this place forever.

Mi Amor

It was nice,
In the dark and the quiet
And your dulcet voice
Like there was something
In me worth listening.

When we said hello at half past one
All our chores for the day were done.
And as we spoke about our day,
The world began to slow down.

There was a time I told you
Of all my thoughts ached inside
To my highest and deepest fears
The things I held scared
To all the world I'd hide

All the while with ticking clock
Laughing as if we'd never stop
We said goodnight at half past two
At dawn we said goodnight again.
If the universe could grant me happiness
for eternity I'd ask for you

Dust of stars wavering away——

Long gone but still miss you

As I reminisce

Our frozen hourglass

You ——

Drifting in oblivion

Like corpses of stars

Full ablaze before your season of ash

Buried, unnamed, no grave——

Six feet under

Cremated in my heart

My collapsing star dust

TRUE LOVE AT THE END

On that day, we start to settle together.
We share love, share every little things,
Work together; tirelessly.
With smiles and happiness around the house.
Like a spring, like a new born child.

As the days pass by, we began to lose.
Like love, care-drifting
Gone into own worries, no time to share hands.
Smiles and laughter becomes an occasion.
Like a summer, that makes as gloom for some time.

The next day comes and self-control is hard
Other weaknesses doesn't seem to matter,
Began with unnecessary Argues and Quarrels,
Began to lose love, memories, sharing's.
Like an autumn, the leaves fall and the tree falls apart.

As the day arrives, to bid farewell,
We remember the past memories,
Wish for some long, but nothing can be done,
Give loves as many as possible,
Sacrificing the most important time together,
Like winter, that fades all the leaves, there's nothing we can do.

NCC- The story that made my life

"Our life Purpose isn't meant to drive us into a hole. It is meant to spread our wings and take our stand."

They say life is a culmination of moments and memories. And indeed, moments we take for granted, comes and goes, overtime evolving into a beautiful memory. The flip side us that there will be a point we look back at it and miss it.

It seems just yesterday when I first joined NCC as a freshman. And before I know it, Senior year is almost here, sooner than I expected. Today, as I sit back and watch myself as a fresher, it all looks different in the rearview mirror. As cliché as it sounds, NCC has completely changed my life far more subtle and significant than it appears. Starting out, I was terrified momma's girl who was totally clueless yet again thrilled at the same time until reality drowned on me. Beginning of the drill class was the worst different kind of pain. Being a girl who was not really a great fan of workout was a serious strike against me since NCC demands physical training. So, I would train with constant rumble if emotions and inner pool if tears . At the end of the drill class, it was hard to figure out which part of my body was actually sick. From doing push-ups and planks, my core felt like a loaf of bread and my back ached like I was 90. Getting the same standard of training as man, technically I started living like one. I ate like a man after training and still lose weight. Getting rid of my girly voice, I started to sound like my dad or at least that's what I thought. Blasted with rain and wind and far from just marching around and being yelled at by seniors, having to deal with mosquitoes us another thing (especially in attention position). I won't deny, my whole world was itchy! Adding to that, try not to laugh is often difficult in a serious situation because that would mean a serious punishment in NCC.

Those process, or perhaps in the manner that I perceive it, has been overwhelmingly filled with heavy lows and downturns as a beginner. But now, as I look back I realised all those experiences has given the platform to experience new things that are indeed out of the ordinary. While I admit it was intimidating and demanding at times, it's been a place that has truly shaped my character. Sure, I didn't get a six-pack or compete in a world championship of planking and push-ups but it did challenge me mentally and physically to get out of my comfort zone. It was beautiful, impactful, life changing none-the-less. Yes, I still have my entire ahead of me. This is just the beginning. But one thing stands above them all; I'm confident in the person I've become and the person I will turn into.

So here's to you, NCC. Here's to letting me discover who I am building me in a tremendous way. Here's to changing my life in more ways than I can ever say
